Moving to another country, and living with a family one’s never met before, can be a scary experience for anyone. But for 17-year-old Federica Mann in Italy, who served as an exchange student at Brighton High School, the experience was one of her best memories.

For some, the experience of going to a foreign country is different. They may have moved to a foreign country for the sake of their education, or they may have moved for a better job. But for others, the experience is a bit different. For example, the exchange student program allows students to experience a foreign country and its culture by staying with a host family.

The student's family is the most important part of the experience. They become their family and their home away from home. They help them learn the language and culture of the country, and they provide them with a welcoming environment.

For example, Rachel Matuszewski, a senior at Brighton High School, lived with a family in Germany for the school year. She describes her experience as one of the most important experiences of her life.

She says, “I think it’s really important to be able to experience different cultures and understand them. It’s important to be able to see the world from a different perspective. It’s really eye-opening.”
